No Legislation Looking to Suspension Possible this Session.

A Philadelphia Times' Washington special says: It is generally understood by the anti-silver people here that there will be no legislation suspending the coinage of the silver dollar this session, or, in fact, this Congress, and there does not seem to be the same concern among the advocates of suspension that there was at the opening of the session. It has come to be the prevailing opinion among financiers that the moneyed and business interests of the country, for the present, at least, cannot suffer by a failure to suspend the coinage of silver. A prominent banker here, who studied the financial situation thoroughly, said: "The silver scare is over. The financial public," he continued, "has at last discovered that as long as the balance of trade is in our favor, there is no danger of any large export of gold. As already stated, it is generally conceded by those who favor suspension, that it is idle to expect it from this Congress, and in the present condition of things there will probably not be any further agitation of the question from them. Strange to say, the principal agitation comes from the silver men themselves, who have everything their own way, and have nothing to fear from the influence of the gold-bugs in Congress. Their only policy is regarded as a very simple one—to do nothing. The law is all on their side, and no one supposes that the policy of the Administration can be changed."

The President's Position.

The Sunday Capital publishes the following editorial by authority, and it reflects the views of the President on the telephone question: We are very glad to know and to be able to state on sufficient authority that President Cleveland does not propose to reorganize his Cabinet at the instance of Roscoe Conkling and the Bell Telephone Company. These people, who are able to control two large newspapers, who have long been seeking to find a weak spot in the breastwork of the Reform Administration, have seized upon the ridiculous Pan-Electric Telephone affair as material for a very loud demonstration against two members of the Cabinet. Mr. Conkling, who, as the paid counsel of the Bell Telephone Company, is now directing the attacks that are being made in New York, has evidently persuaded his newspaper assistants that they can break up the Cabinet, and thereby prove to the world that Joseph Pulitzer and Charles A. Dana are more influential Democrats than Grover Cleveland. While the vanity of the gentlemen is thus utilized by the attorney for the Bell Telephone Company, the managers of the latter evidently believe that Mr. Cleveland can be scared out of his purpose of authorizing a suit to test the validity of the Bell patents; but they are woefully mistaken. When will the people get the silly idea out of their heads that Mr. Cleveland is a man who can be bullied or frightened by the extraordinary tactics that have been pursued in this affair, which has simply resulted in convincing him it is of the utmost importance to secure the proposed legal test of the great telephone patents, and the whole power of the Administration will be exerted, if need be, to secure this result? The Bell Telephone Company has not money enough, nor has Roscoe Conkling sufficient newspaper mud-power in New York, to prevent justice from being done in this matter, nor can they weaken, in the slightest degree, the status of Mr. Garland or Mr. Lamar as members of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet.

Chicago has done an unusually sensible thing. It has announced its intention to spend $40,000 for a Grant monument, and it has already $45,000 on hand. If New York had not talked quite so loud about the millions dollars it was going to raise, the $100,000 that it has would seem more respectable.

New York, Feb. 8th.—Referring editorially to Congressman Morrow's three bills for the better carrying out of the restriction upon Chinese immigration, the New York Tribune says: The justification of these bills lies in the fact that the so-called Restriction Act has not proved effective. Hitherto the feeling on the whole Pacific Coast about Chinese immigration has not been thoroughly understood in the Eastern States. The folly and extravagance of a few conspicuous demagogues have unfortunately been too generally regarded as the measure of Pacific Coast intelligence on the question. Chinese labor in the past has helped California, and far more perhaps than Californians have been willing to admit, but the development of the State has now reached a point at which a form of labor differing but little from peonage must become more and more a hindrance to the progress of American civilization. In California the Chinese appear as not only formidable, but invincible competitors with white labor. The latter can only overcome them by underbidding them, and that means a descent below the level even of Chinese civilization, and it is not to be thought of. Notwithstanding the bluster and turbulent talk of the demagogues, the people of California generally have endured this burden with patience, which proves the depth and soundness of their Anglo-Saxon training. Now that California Representatives ask Congress to amend and make effective the law whose enactment was a pledge to abate the Chinese evil, the request ought to be carefully considered and granted, as regards the validity of the Restriction Act, if only from a sense of justice.

The Attack on Garland.

The New York Graphic's Washington correspondent says: I understand that Pulitzer, of the New York World, has said that he intended to keep up the war on Attorney-General Garland until the latter resigned from the Cabinet. What the motives of the World and Sun are, no one seems to understand. The attacks are so persistent and savage that they leave no doubt of their object. So far they have made no impression upon either the President or Garland. Gentlemen connected with the Administration suggest the theory that Pulitzer has taken this method of demonstrating the influence and independence of the World. He does not think that he has received a proper amount of attention from the Administration, and proposes to show that as a member of Congress he is entitled to a higher place than he has been given in the councils of the Administration and the Democratic party.

Stalling Blaine's Thunder.

Among the bills introduced in the Senate Tuesday was one by Senator Sherman, authorizing the President to invite all the Governments of Mexico, Central America, South America and Brazil to send delegates to meet in convention in Washington upon such a day as he may appoint during the present year, to consider such questions as relate to the best mode of establishing upon a firm and lasting basis peaceful and reciprocal commercial relations, and also to adopt such measures as may be considered most practicable to carry forward the construction of an international railroad between the United States and these countries. It appropriates $50,000, to be placed to the credit of the Secretary of State, to defray the expenses of the convention.

The general sentiment is that the coming State campaign shall be short, sharp and decisive, and from all over the State there comes suggestions that the Republican State Convention shall not meet until late in September. By that time there will be full and free discussion of all available candidates, the best and strongest will have been developed, and the party can go in and by hard hits and lively work make the winning fight.

General Hancock's death was the result of a malignant carbuncle on the back of his neck, which had confined him to his bed for several days. No serious alarm was felt, however, until shortly before he expired.

The Austin Reville correctly remarks:

Nevada's exhibition at New Orleans is surprising all who see it. The general impression East is that Nevada is a barren half-civilized waste, peopled by red-shirted, heavily armed desperadoes, and that is now worthless because the old bonanzas have given out. Nine out of every ten of the people East of the Rocky Mountains have about such an idea of our greatly abused State and it is a favored theme for Eastern journalists to abuse the State and convey the idea that nothing good can possibly come out of it.

These ideas are wildly shocked at New Orleans. Spectators see great piles of beautiful specimens of ore, and mammoth potatoes and other vegetables which would make a New Englander wild with joy could he duplicate them on his rocky sidehill "farm." And this came from that despised sagebrush land of Nevada! No wonder they open their eyes and see their mistakes. With hills full of silver and valleys full of fertility, with every mineral known to man in profusion, a field is here offered for investment and research not excelled from Alaska to Africa.

Yet Nevada must be periodically abused and defamed, its institutions derided and its people vilified by ignorant people East who wrap themselves up in their vain glory, and freeze to death in their winter blizzards or are sun-struck by their Summer suns, who flee from miasma and fever while we have none of these. Nevada will do to tie to after all.

Much good will result from this exhibition of our resources both in New Orleans and in London, where it is to be taken after this New Orleans show closes. We all owe much to W. M. Haverford for the excellence of the display. He visited every important place in the State and personally gathered specimens of the mineral productions and arranged to have the vegetables and other articles of display forwarded to him. He was an enthusiast on the matter and therefore did it with much more thoroughness than had he simply possessed an ordinary interest in it. He told us he was astonished to see how varied and extensive were Nevada's resources and was sure that time would develop what are now neglected fields of industry and which will yet surprise all. Vast beds of salt and borax, great ledges of mineral-bearing ores which now are looked upon as too base to be profitably worked will yet give employment to thousands and add millions to the wealth of the world. When he takes the display to London it will do us great good in showing some of our State's possibilities and undeceive the people who now look upon Nevada as a profitless barren waste. Let the good day hasten.

Mitchell of Oregon.

The New Orleans Times Democrat says that the new Senator from Oregon, Mr. Mitchell, whose Republicanism has been questioned, is very indignant about it, and discusses the matter with a good deal of freedom.

"I was not a Hayes Republican," he explains, "nor was I an admirer of General Garfield. I like a robust article of politics—something that you can take a pride in and avow anywhere. I don't believe in tampering or playing fast or loose with people. The Republican party must go back under its old leadership if it is ever to regain its lost place. Men like Conkling are men to lead. They are honest and able and aggressive, and nobody is called upon to defend them or to apologize for them. My Republicanism is a matter of fact and of a much more reliable character than that of a good many people who seem concerned about it."

The San Francisco Post says it is stated that President Cleveland declines to be bullied by the Bell monopoly, and that he will retain Garland in his Cabinet. The public does not desire to see Mr. Cleveland bullied, and it is perfectly willing that he should push proceedings against the Bell monopoly to the full extent of the law. But the point which the obtuse mind of the people is unable to grasp is the necessity for having the proceedings conducted by an officer with $1,500,000 of rival telephone stock in his pocket. An elucidation of the reasons which make Mr. Garland the only fit man to prosecute this case would fill a long felt want.

Jones in Washington.

State Surveyor General Preble, who had a good opportunity for general observation during his recent visit to the national capital says that our popular Senator J. P. Jones is decidedly a power among the leading men of the nation. Although recognized as a staunch Republican and an uncompromising silver man, he has more influence with the Democratic Administration regarding Pacific Coast matters than even Senator Fair has. Representative Woodburn is also making his mark, and our interests are not suffering.—Enterprise.

The Carson Appeal says: The late storm has resulted in a frightful mortality to cattle in Texas. Over 900,000 perished in the last blizzard. In this State cattlemen on all sides report but slight losses; so slight as not to be even annoying. The Vail Bros., of this State, who also have a cattle ranch in Texas, report several thousand cattle lost in the storm, where they died of cold or starvation. In this State, with several thousand cattle equally exposed, they did not lose a head. The advantages of this State as a cattle growing section becomes more and more demonstrated every year.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. feb. 21-sw-lyr

The Silver State says:

The President claims to be conducting his Administration for the best interests of the people, but the decided stand which he has taken against silver, in opposition to the leading members of the party which elected him, will, if he persists in, lead many of his supporters to believe that he consults the interests of Wall Street and the National Banks much more than those of the masses of the people.

Probably Nevada is the only State in the Union, where it is almost the unanimous custom for newspapers when mentioning the candidacy of a person for U. S. Senator or Governor to state how much money he is supposed to be worth. And yet some of those very papers give the Times-Review sheet because it alludes to the purchase of votes at former elections.—Times-Review.

If the silver men in Congress had the nerve they could put a free coinage bill through and probably pass it over the President's veto. Now is the time to work the boom.—Times-Review.

The funeral of General Hancock is expected to take place at Norristown, Pa., where the body will be buried by the side of his daughter, Ida.

The President has appointed Christopher Franks U. S. Marshal for California.

The Board of Regents did not have a meeting yesterday, on account of the continued illness of Regent Rand. He will be able to come here next week.

Mrs. Senator Stewart's new residence in Carson is assuming proper shape. The editor of the Tribune walked round it Sunday and saw much cause for envy in the possession of so very tasty a building.

W. D. Sanborn, the new Pacific Coast agent of the popular Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad, will assume control on Saturday, relieving the genial P. G. Beam. Mr. Sanborn is one of the best railroad agents ever appointed for the Coast, and the public will find him a good man to deal with. The JOURNAL is glad to know that the popular T. D. McKay will continue to be Assistant.

The Carson Free Lance says:

A Boston scientist, who spent last winter in this State has discovered that the blossom of the Nevada greasewood furnishes abundant and first-class material for the production of honey and has induced a number of Eastern capitalists, with Anthony Comstock at the head, to incorporate a company for the purpose of stocking a large area of this State with bees. Carson should make an effort to have the central apiary established here before Reno gets in and bags the prize.

The Resesguie Case.

The case of Frank Resesguie vs. the Central Pacific Railroad Company is on trial in the Superior Court at Sacramento, Cal. Resesguie was an engineer on the Humboldt Division of the road. A year ago last fall his train ran into a band of cattle near Humboldt Wells, and the engine was thrown off the track, killing the fireman, Tom May, and seriously injuring Resesguie. He brought suit against the company for $50,000.

Mining Tax.

The Paradise Valley Mining Company is the only one in Humboldt county that has paid a mining tax in the last quarter. This company worked 2,000 tons of ore, the gross yield of which was $60,835 88, and the total cost of production was $48,428 07, leaving a net profit of $12,407 81, on which the tax amounted to $324.16.

Past failures—Then and Now—A Wonderful Discrepancy—Mining Items—The Divining Rod Proposition.

A correspondent writing to the Enterprise from Washoe City under date of January 8, gives the following reminiscences of the early times, also a few mining items of the present time:

What a change in Washoe City must be in the minds of the passers by, especially to those familiar with its early days. Only a few short years ago its name was heralded far and near, its future prosperity as an already settled fact to be equaled by none in the Territory. Business property at fabulous prices, buildings arising almost as if by magic, streets laid out and improved in as rapid a manner as could be done, groceries, dry goods, hardware, clothing and every other line represented by immense stocks as demanded in a rushing, thriving community, churches, school houses, and residences side-by-side with saloons, hurdy-houses and dead-falls of every description, livery stables and corals with hundreds of horses, oxen and Washoe canaries, prairie schooners, stages, quartz and wood wagons dotting the streets and roads in every direction, money and whisky plentiful as water, every other business place a saloon, and two-bit ones at that, teamsters, gamblers, "old bums" with the usual accompaniment of prostitutes, paraded the sidewalks by day, or raised Hail Columbia by night, ministers both in and out of the faith, hunting converts or a square meal as the case might be; such was the beautiful Washoe City in 1865.

And now what is it? A few tumbled down buildings, or gutting there as fast as the elements can so reduce them, the most likely one being used for the Post and express office, and one shanty doing duty as a saloon. This is the business portion of Washoe, and is so generally known what the perquisites of Uncle Sam's fourth-class office amount to and the commissions on a $40 revenue per month in the express business will fall to the "lucky" Agent. It will be seen that as a business proposition it is not a big thing to tie to. The saloon does better, but as the owner was convicted and fined $200 for selling whisky to Indians, it sort of knocked the profits off his barrel of "forty rods." This is a natural consequence, inasmuch as his chief trade is among the noble red men and strangers.

There is some mining going on in the vicinity.

At the Willow Creek mine, two miles below here, the contractors have completed nearly 200 feet of their contract in the new tunnel, and are making six feet to a shift. They have been extremely fortunate, having had pecking around all the way, but not striking anything reaching a depth of 150 feet, which is done a few days since. This was east of Hurra's claim, under the direction of the celebrated bonanza finder, Norrie, who located ore as existing within a few inches of 115 feet. As they have given three feet margin already, it behooves the welder of the metal-bolt to try the machine again and see what's the matter. Probably he didn't take into consideration the change the weather might make in the proper workings of the guy-assentus.

Home Insurance Company.

The Carson Free Lance makes an excellent suggestion in the annexed article. Nevada pays nearly $90,000 per year for insurance to foreign companies of which fifty per cent. is clear profit. The money ought to be kept at home. We heartily endorse what is said by the Free Lance:

The insurance companies have combined, and have raised the rates on property in Nevada five per cent. above the usual schedule. It is a poor rate that will not work both ways. The people of the State may unite, and refuse to take out insurance policies, unless this obnoxious order is rescinded. Or, better still, they may take it into their heads to organize an insurance company of their own, and thus save the payment of exorbitant rates to foreign corporations. There are enough rich men in the State to form such a company. All that is needed is sufficient executive ability to bring these capitalists to gether. Here is a chance for some energetic underwriter to make himself manager of a business that is bound to grow and prosper if once established.

Krao's Reception in New York City.

In the barroom of the Hamboldt House hangs a picture, which attracts the attention of travelers from the East and West who stop at that far-famed hostelry. It represents a diminutive mondescript, apparently half human and half monkey named Krao. Last Saturday Krao arrived in New York from Europe, where scientists named it "Darwin's Missing Link." She has been visited by many physicians and newspaper men. A reporter says she is a member of a race known as the "Tree Dwellers of Laos," and was captured about five years ago, being about five years old at the time. She has learned to speak English and German fairly well, but her most peculiar feature is the luxuriant growth of black, glossy hair which falls in long tresses from her head and covers her body, almost completely, with a hairy envelope about one inch in thickness. Only on the palms of her hands and feet is the grayish yellow skin uncovered. These have all the peculiarities of the same members of a well-developed ape. The fingers are so flexible that they can be bent backward so that the ends rest on the back of the hand without causing pain, and can be twisted in every direction, like the feet of a monkey. The nose of this singular specimen is devoid of cartilage, as well as the ears, which are situated farther back on the head than in the higher race. She is the only member of the tree-dwellers ever brought to this country.

Something Beautiful.

John Barrett, formerly of this city, says the Enterprise, but now of Reno who cut the handsome stone contributed by the State of Nevada to the National Washington monument, was in the city Monday, and showed us a most beautiful specimen of his handiwork in the shape of a fine marble vase or card receiver. It is six inches in height and eight inches in diameter, made of the purest white marble from the quarries of the Inyo Marble Company. It is one of the most tastefully executed and peculiarly beautiful pieces of work of the kind imaginable, highly polished, and showing the remarkable qualities and capabilities of that valuable species of marble.

Miss Purdy Dead.

News came in yesterday from Long Valley that Miss Lizzie Purdy had died at 6 o'clock of dypsy. The family came from Downsville, where they were pioneers, and settled on a farm on the west side of the valley at the mouth of Bull's Canyon. The parents have both died within a few years, and are both buried in the Masonic plot. The two sisters have conducted the farm since, and they have been very devoted to each other. Both Misses Purdy were well educated and cultivated ladies. The death of Lizzie leaves the remaining one lonely indeed. The funeral will probably take place on Friday, if relatives from San Francisco and Downsville can get here.
